Alive

Living!

The theme of this year's book, "Alive and Living," reflects Saint Joseph's College's 1996-1997 academic year. This energy was apparent everywhere, not only on campus, but around the country. From the re-election of president Clinton, to the upholding of homosexual marriages in Hawaii, to the nomination of a woman to the position of Secretary of State, change has showed its face and proved that it is not going to end any time soon.

Here, on our little campus in rural Collegeville, Indiana, the idea of stiving ahead has also been evident. It began this year with new facility improvements, new faculty, and a championship women's soccer team. The changes continued through the 1997 semester and ended with graduation in May.

During the 1996-1997 academic year, Saint Joseph's College has shown one thing to the global community—that it is Alive & Living.

Student Life!

Coming and Going!

A day in the life of a student involves a lot. From every day dorm life, to clubs and groups, to activities, one day can seem to last an eternity. But, this is what being a student at Saint Joseph's College is. Student Life is Coming and Going!

Resident Assistants

What do you think of when you hear the term "RA"? For some, an RA is the enemy — the person in charge of enforcing the rules. For others, the RA can be a confidant and friend. Junior Julie Lanoue says, "I think the RA's here at St. Joe are just like anyone else: they are fun to be with and easy-going. But, at the same time they have to do their jobs and enforce the rules."

A resident assistant is all of these things. The purpose of an RA is to have one person located at each floor who is able to deal with problems, conflicts and emergencies. In return, the individual receives benefits, including a free single.

1996-1997 brought some changes in the campus life department, including a new supervisor, Teresa Ping. The RA staff consisted of: Kathleen Brass, Chad Creager, Matt Cuff, Rosa Dasilva, Ryan Davis, Jen Emeritz, Becky Fogg, Darren Haas, Destin Haas, Dewain Hernandez, Manda Hollis, Marcus Jackson, Sherrie Jankowski, Corey Long, Amy McConville, Scott Miller, Chad Pulver, Miranda Shaw, Michael Thompson, Brian Tobe, Melissa Westphal, Tammie Williams, Tony Williams, and Jeremy Wilson.

The St. Joseph's College band has had an excellent 1996-97 season. The marching, pep, and concert bands took part in numerous performances throughout the year. From the fun and exciting basketball and football games to the concerts when the pressure is really on, the band always gave a fantastic show.

Because the band grew to nearly 70 members this year, marching band season was extremely exciting. The fabulous performances kept fans in their seats during half-time in order to view the new displays of the Puma Marching Band. With the opening song of "Shaft" and a new second song almost weekly, the marching band kept busy learning new music while Color Guard busied themselves with new routines. Second songs included "Twist and Shout", "Marcarena", "Santana", and a special tribute on Senior Day: "When You Wish Upon a Star."

Puma Rock!

The new radio station has caused some excitement on campus. Over the course of the summer, 90.5 WPUM Puma Rock moved from the chapel basement (also known as "the dungeon") to the SLUPO computer lab. The reason for the move, according to Pete Haring, general manager, was "to better enhance the features of a real radio station." The new station is located in a room with two walls made up of windows. The cost for the school was about $30,000, and a grant from Frank

J. Lewis added the extra $20,000 that was needed to finish the project. The radio station now has brand new top-of-the-line equipment, as well as a view.

The station is being run by general manager Pete Haring, sports director Jeff Proctor, news director Joe "the weasel" Vorrier, and music director Dave Dixon. "The format," according to Haring, "is Album Oriented Rock, which spans from classic rock to alternative rock to industrial to loud rock." Haring hopes that the more convenient and accessible location will attract new students who may be interested in audio production. The new station also includes a new production room for use by basic audio and broadcast announcing students. In the future, Haring hopes to improve the facility by making the station 100 watts (it is currently 10), which would increase the listening audience substantially.

Freshman Orientation

To some, their freshman year in college can be exciting; to others it can be scary. But almost all will agree that it is a stepping stone to something bigger and better. It is an opportunity to learn and grow in life as a person, and many exciting opportunities have arisen for this year's freshmen. All of this started with Freshman Orientation.

It's the beginning of a whole new life: living away from home, doing your own laundry, and actually having to study. To get things started, all of the freshmen arrived on campus a few days early to be led around by those trusty freshman leaders. They get settled into their rooms, meet their roommates (many for the first time), and buy their books. Along with that comes meetings with advisors, Freshman Seminar groups, and R.A.'s.

To highlight Freshman Orientation, every freshman participated in Playfair, an annual event here on St. Joe's campus. Freshmen humiliated themselves in front of the entire class performing crazy stunts just to get to know one another. Fun was had by all, and it was definitely a place for friendships and memories to be made.

Homecoming!

Victory at Last!

This year's Homecoming was special in many ways. By the time the king and queen were announced, the game was already well in hand. The Pumas dominated Quincy University in every phase of the game, capturing the first homecoming victory in seven years. Not only did our fellow Pumas come home to relive a storied past, but to witness a promising future. As the winners of the Aluminum Bowl, SJC's greatest football team ever, they yielded it to the 1996 football team that would go on to set the school record for victories.

The football game was not all that Homecoming consisted of. Festivities began Thursday night. The activities included a parade, a bonfire and skits to start the weekend off. The celebration was already in full swing by the time Saturday's game was kicked off.

This year's king and queen were seniors Destin Haas and Tracy Ziemba. All in all, the weekend was a success, which was evident when the football team left the field victorious singing "fight, fight, fight for St. Joe, hold fast, conquer the foe . . . !"

Some freshman girls participate in a card game as part of Alcohol Awareness Week.

Terra Schafer and company are all smile while they take a break from socializing at Coconut Joe's.

A serious game of cards is nothing to joke about—just like alcohol awareness week—"Be-Wiser"!

Alcohol Awareness Week, 1996

Little green frogs began appearing all around campus during the middle of October. Students asked, "What are they? What do they mean?" They soon learned that the frogs were for Alcohol Awareness Week, 1996. The theme for this year was "Be Wiser."

Many events were planned for the week to promote moderation of alcohol consumption and awareness of the effects of alcohol. Throughout the week carnations were sold outside the cafeteria for students and faculty to send to whomever on campus. Also, T-shirts commemorating the week were sold. Facts about alcohol were posted all over campus. The main focus of the week, however, was the daily events.

The fun began Monday night in Core XI. The Core XI staff allowed ACES to have their famous Coconut Joe's in conjunction with Monday Night Football. On Tuesday, ACES and the Campus Life office co-sponsored an auction involving local establishments and faculty services. This event raised $411.00.

On Wednesday, an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting was held on campus. Mary Hannon, co-president of ACES stated: "It's amazing how much members have to share and are willing to talk about their experiences." The panel shared several touching stories about personal failure and harm resulting from alcohol abuse.

Thursday night involved free bowling at STRIKE-ZONE. Finally, Friday night concluded the week with an eighties dance in the ballroom. The committee who organized the week was very happy with the way the week went. Jamie Portal, co-president of ACES, stated: "We plan on next year being even bigger and better!"

Fall Play

"How do they make it look so easy?" is something you probably wondered if you saw the fall play "You Can't Take it with You." The freshmen had just finished reading it in Core 1 because it relates to the topic of the American dream. The play is about a family, the Sycamores, who don't quite fit in society but instead go off in their own direction, following their dreams.

When Alice (the daughter and only Sycamore in touch with the real world) gets engaged, she doesn't think the relationship will work if her fiancé's family is introduced to her peculiar family.

According to Jen Palacek, who played the role of Penelope Sycamore, practicing lines isn't as hard as it seems because it's like having a normal conversation with someone. Jen has always loved acting and has been in many high school plays as well as other plays at SJC.

The play was performed in front of a full house on Parent's Weekend, November 1 and 2, with a special matinee performance in the afternoon on Sunday, November 3.

Little Sibs

There comes a week every year when it's actually fashionable to invite your brother or sister to spend the weekend with you at college: Little Sibs Weekend. This year the event took place on October 26-27. Students' brothers and sisters were entertained with a variety of activities. One of the favorites was Make Your Own

Video. There were over 50 vidoes, and children could dance to their favorite songs in front of a background of their choice. Next, sibs were also given the opportunity to visit various dorms on campus while trick-or-treating. There was also a Rec Fest featuring games in the Rec Center. Finally, children of all ages went to see The Hunchback of Notre Dame when it was playing on the big screen in the auditorium. This weekend gives the little brothers and sisters a chance to see what college life is like, and it's always fun for everyone involved.

SUB Fall Events

SUB has historically been one of the major sources of campus entertainment, and this year was no different. With a variety of bands, comedians, and student-involved activities, SUB helped to bring the campus to life at least once a week. SUB got the year off on the right note with an interactive Playfair for the freshmen. During the first week of school, they brought in Mike Rayburn, who was voted "America's best acoustical act" by Campus Activities Today. Rayburn delighted the crowd with his mastery of the guitar and his vast knowledge of music.

Pumapalooza was the next event that drew a big crowd and involved many members of the campus community. Another such event was the Lip Sync Contest. Widely considered one of the best events of the year, this year's Lip Sync did not disappoint. Steve Kaplan helped to gear up the crowd with his version of Neil Diamond's "Cracklin Rosie." While Neil may be a singer whose influence spans the ages, it was a band making their comeback who stole the show. Senior Jim Wirtes headlined with Eric Ziolkowski, Scott Moore, and Chris Viecei as they brought down the house with Kiss's "I Wanna Rock and Roll All Night."

The students weren't always left to their own devices for fun. Amongst groups brought in by SUB and its director Cindy Rinke were Selected Hilarity (improvisational comedy), hypnotist Ronny Romm, and Tonic Sol-Fa A Cappella. While there was plenty of live entertainment to be seen, SUB also helped to deliver some of the year's best motion pictures, as well. They played Jumanji, Braveheart and Babe through channel 6, and a different movie was shown every afternoon and evening during the semester. On the big screen, SUB showed Independence Day and Disney's Hunchback of Notre Dame. All of the fall activities echoed the message of our final big screen movie Phenomenon: "Dance with life and leave a brilliant life behind!"

Mr. Puma 1997!

As part of the Little 500 festivities, the much-anticipated annual Mr. Puma contest was held in the ballroom on Wednesday April 23, 1997. Thirteen men competed in four categories: formal wear, talent, flexing, and question-and-answer. The talent portion included singing, poetry reading, and an act involving a kiddie pool and the "Rubber Duckie" song.

Toby Cheatham was declared the winner, with Bill Bell and Zac Wells as first and second place runners-up. Other contestants included: Bryan Hall, Rob Burns, Dan Gandolph, Reggie Stevenson, Gary Campbell, Joe Derybowski, Charlie Schalliol, Chad Novac, Eric Ziolkowski and Charlie Barrett.

In addition to crowning Mr. Puma, the Little 500 queen was announced in the same evening. Tracey Ziemba was the winner.

IM Football

Intramurals are a tradition at Saint Joseph's College. IM's represent the men and women who enjoy a friendly spirited game against friends, instead of against opposing schools. Intramural competition rages high here at SJC. The reason for this is that teams are generally made up of players from single dorms. This makes the rivalries come alive to see which team will get the ever-coveted IM Football Championship T-shirt.

This year, there were seven men's teams and two women's teams. The teams were: M.O.B., Noll Style, Noll Style Lite, Cack and Bolls, Team Frosh+3, Gallagher Gators and The Independents. The women's teams were Six Pack and Puma Punch. All of the teams competed for the T-shirt.

This year, Noll Style and Noll Style Lite fought in the championship game. Noll Style won with a victory of 12-0. In the women's competition, Six Pack was the victor.

Breaking the Record SJC Football

This year's football team's motto was "Do the Right Thing." They must have done something right because this year's season was a record breaker. The student body came out to support the team in record numbers too. The 1996-1997 football season not only had the best record in history, but the highest fan turnout in recent years.

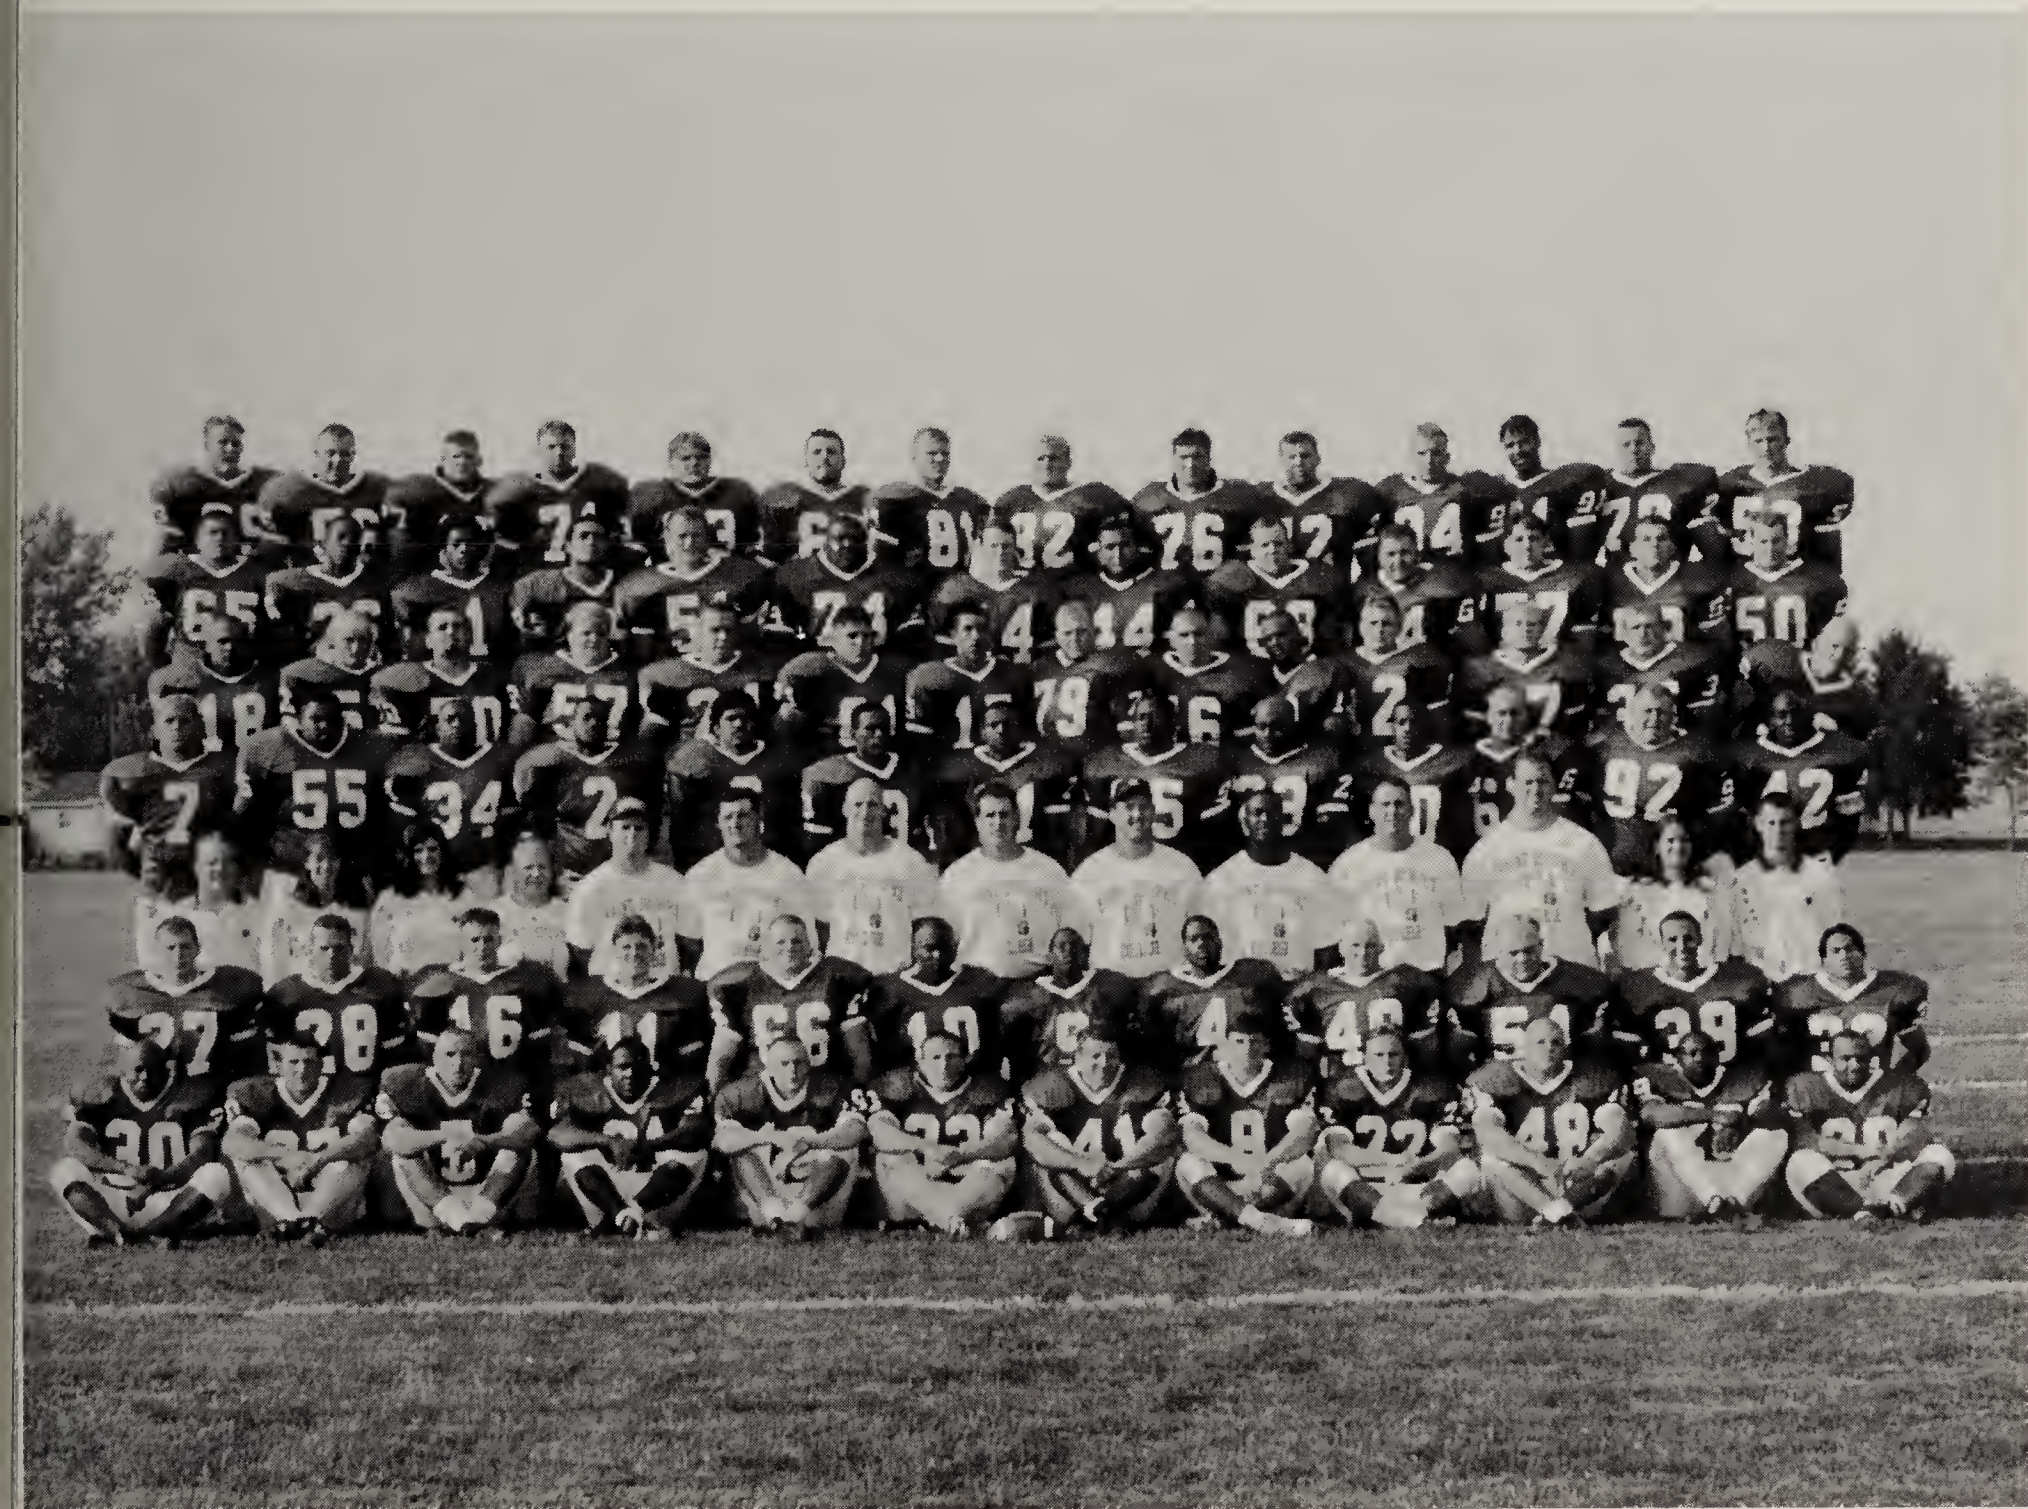

The football team ended their season 9-2 which is the most wins in a season in Saint Joe history. The team's record is currently the 2nd longest winning streak in Division II football.

This was also the first year the football team competed independently, without participating in a conference. In two years they will be competing in the Great Lakes Football Conference with teams like Quincy University and Kentucky Wesleyan College.

Senior Center Aaron Metz summed up the season by saying, "Even though we had our hardships, we still persevered and came out on top."

Setting up for next season Puma Volleyball

This year's volleyball team did not have a stellar season with a record of 7-22, but Coach Kevin Furnish is optimistic.

Last year the team lost seven seniors, so the team is relatively young, starting five out of six freshman at times. Coach Furnish was satisfied with his team and how they played given the inexperience of the freshmen and how young they were. It was a team effort with all the players working together.

Furnish believes that next year's team will be much better with more wins. Furnish said that next year's team will "be twice the team of this year."

With a season under their belt, the Lady Pumas will be a force to reckon with in years to come.

SOCCER

Champions Women's Soccer

This year's women's soccer team started 5th out of 10 teams in the GLVC preseason poll. Three months later, they were in the NCAA Division II Nationals. Overall, this season was the best the SJC women's soccer team has seen in its history.

The team not only had a low ranking coming into the season, but the women also were coming off of a 14-7 record from the '95 season. The women came out and played seriously, and as coach Mike Minelli noted, the team used the poll as a motivation.

The team's only loss of the season was to the two-time defending champion Franklin-Pierce College. For all of their hard work, the team was rewarded in many ways. Senior Denise Hutchinson was named Most Valuable Player for Division II. Other members were selected for All-American first and second teams.

The ladies are already fired up about next year. Megan Kolaczyk looks forward to playing her senior year: "It will be tough for us to fill the positions of the eight graduating seniors, but with hard work and dedication hopefully we will make it back to the final four." The women's soccer team is just another example of the way SJC students are Alive and Living!

Building Blocks

Women's Softball

The SJC women's softball team did not have a stellar 1997 season. Coming into the season they lost two important Seniors. They also gained ten Freshmen. Because of the team's youth, it was hard to adjust to so many new players.

Junior pitcher Sharon Rhyne said, "Our season was a little disappointing.

We have more talent than our record shows; we just couldn't pull together at the right times."

Junior catcher Kathy Braun expressed her feelings by saying: "while many personal goals were met, they weren't enough to meet our team goals." Braun also said "It was a learning experience for everyone."

This year's season was a rebuilding season. Now that the women's softball team has a year behind them, the future looks promising for upcoming seasons.

GLVC Tournament 2nd Place

When the majority of a team consists of freshmen and sophomores, it generally is assumed that the upcoming season will be a time to rebuild and prepare for the future. However, by the end of the first week of practice, Coach John Barrientos knew the women had the potential to achieve success. The women even surpassed Barrientos' expectations by finishing the season with a 15-3 record and reaching the finals of the GLVC Championships.

Junior Manda Hollis led the squad at singles. According to Barrientos, Hollis, along with sophomore Jill Orzechoskie, was instrumental in team leadership.

Barrientos is optimistic about the prospects of the Lady Pumas for the GLVC Championship next year. The potential is there now, and next year the team will be aided by the addition of freshman red-shirt Katie Flanigan. "I can't remember any other time when we were in such good a position," Barrientos concluded.

Supporting Their Faith with Goodness

Men's Tennis

This years men's tennis team did an excellent job of "supporting their faith with goodness," showing their faith in one another and reaching out to the community, achieving more unity than ever. Although they fell short of their team goal of the best-ever record, the season will hold many memorable matches and memories. The team combined diverse personalities with good sportsmanship and great tennis.

While Junior James Blinzinger held court at No. 1 singles, the three Seniors followed in style. Jude Clover (#2) started the season on fire with an 8-3 record while Jon Chovanec (#3) gave the team a boost into conference finishing in similar fashion.

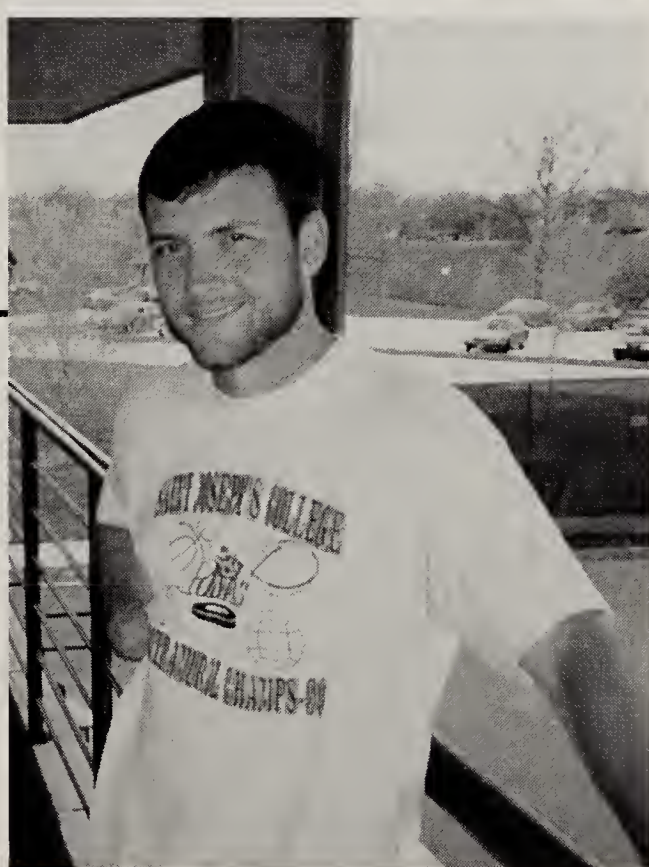

Perhaps the teams proudest accomplishment was raising the funds to take a spring break trip to Florida where the team adopted its own official mascot-a burro named Jaxbo.

Me to We

Men's Basketball

The 1996-1997 men's basketball team did not have the best of seasons finishing 4-23 overall and 2-18 in conference. They did have a high turnout of fans, though to support and cheer them on. This was yet another example of a young team that was having to rebuild.

Leading the team in rebounds was Junior Hiram Thomas with 107 followed by Gregory Taylor with 92. Andrew Moore led the team in total points scored with 351 with Ryan Davis following him with 227 points.

The team's motto this year was

"Me to We." showing that team unity and team spirit was essential to playing a good game. If the men's basketball team keeps its "Me to We" motto of team unity and playing hard they can only improve.

Play Hard

Women's B-Ball

The women's basketball evened out the season with a 13-14 record ending in an admirable position in the conference. The overall attitude was to "play hard and the rest will come in time."

There were many injuries this season and because of this, it was a season of rebuilding. There was an all around effort from all the players to play well. Leading the Lady Pumas with total points scored was Tamara Bumpers with 395. Jessika Henry also scored 288 for the team. Angela Hupfer lead the team in defensive rebounds with 198.

Junior, Tammie Williams sums it up by saying, "If all sides continue to step up, I believe that we can learn from this season of hardships and become a dominant force again within our conference."

Puma Hardball Baseball

This year's baseball team had big shoes to fill after last year. Last years team was NCAA Division II World Series Runner-up. This season they finished 27-17.

Last year they lost many positional players along with many heavy hitters. But this year's team has some stars of their own.

Senior third baseman Larry Satkoski hit a record breaking 15 homeruns and ended the season with a .440 batting average. Senior Lou Pinto had 9 homeruns hitting 5 in one game. Junior pitcher Rick O'Dette had the best record of 8-1 striking out 66 batters.

Freshman pitcher Ryan Reffitt (3-2) also did well striking out 40 batters. Senior pitcher Andrew D'Amore was out for part of the season, but in the 1st game of the season stepped up to bat to knock out a double; his first and last hit of the season.

Congratulations . . .

Graduation weekend 1997 began with festivities on Thursday May 8 and continued through the actual Graduation ceremony on Sunday May 11 in the fieldhouse. Each event was open for seniors to enjoy and some held open invitations for family and friends.

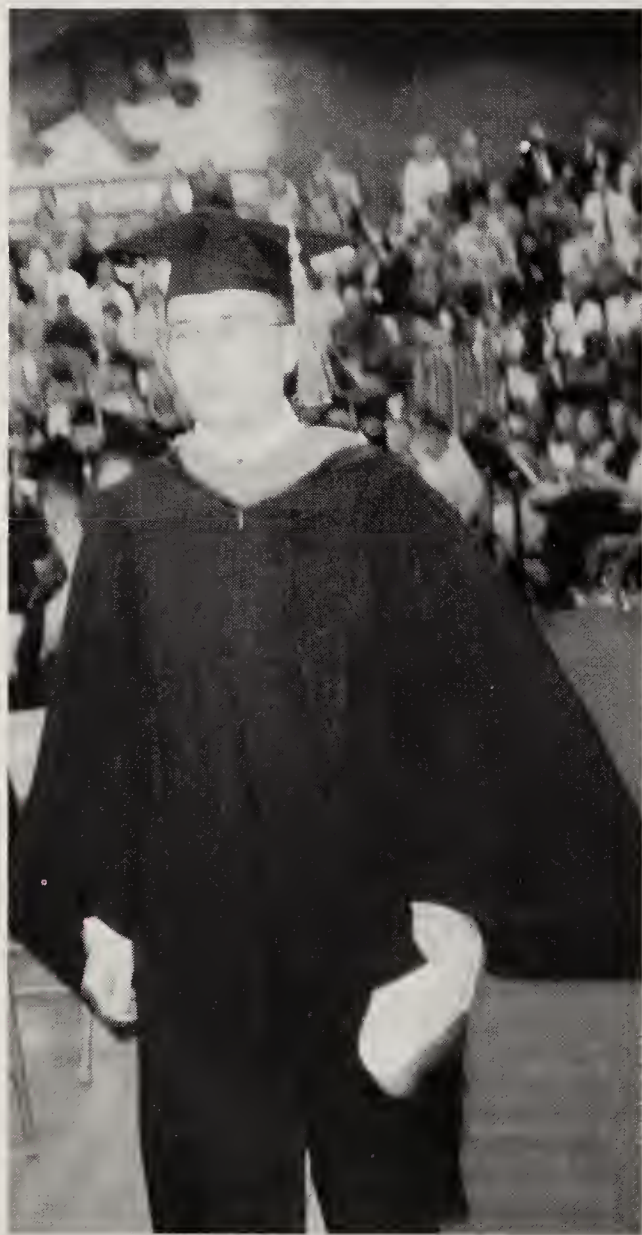

Thursday evening had much in store for the senior class. To begin with, they were invited to President Shannon's home in order to get their diplomas signed. Then, it was off to Core XI for the last senior night ever. At Core XI, everyone wore white T-shirts and had class mates sign them.

Friday began with the Senior Champagne brunch. Here mock awards were given for things like "Most likely to become a cult leader", "Most likely to find a cure for AIDS", and "Most likely to become a Walmart greeter." Later, a softball tournament took place in the IM field. Finally, the night was concluded with the Senior Dance held in the ballroom.

Saturday, like the other days, was also quite busy. The days activities began with a cook-out at Lake Banet. Then, in the evening, Bachelariate mass took place and a reception was held afterwards which included the senior slide show. Sunday included a brunch for the families and friends of graduates and commencement exercises. In all, it was a very exciting weekend, full of laughter and tears.

Above: One of the three valedictorians, Brian DiPaolo walks up to receive his diploma. The other valedictorians included Amanda Long and Emily Karol.

Seniors enter in a processional at the Bachelariate mass.

Jennifer Emeritz celebrates her winning of the mock award "Female with the highest tolerance" at the Senior Dance on Friday night.

Mom, Dad and Todd

They say "Writing a book is an adventure." And, the 1996-1997 edition of Phase was no exception. We began the year solidly, moving in a positive direction. "Alive and Living" became our theme, but this concept quickly died.

With the beginning of second semester came the loss of our original advisor. However, P.K. Mathew became our knight in shining armor when she took over the position. Then, came the crash of our entire system. Over 45 pages were lost. But, with some extra work and organization, even this dilemma was overcome.

So, I would like to personally thank P.K. Mathews and everyone else who made volume 54 of Phase possible. It was a lot of hard work, but we got the job done.

*Kathleen A. Brass
-Editor-in-Chief*

Credits

The publishing company responsible for the 1996-1997 edition of Phase was Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas. Volume 54 was printed 136 pages of 80# gloss enamel paper. The cover was designed by Kathleen Brass with publication assistance provided by Greg Samples and Karen Schiferl.

Typography:

All captions were 8 on 9 Seville, justified. Body copy was also Seville, but 10 on 12 or 12 on 14. Headlines were Weidemann Bold and Subheads were Weidemann Italic. Type sizes and leading according to section.

Theme:

The theme "Alive and Living" was designed by Kathleen Brass. It was designed in Weidemann Bold Italic and Weidemann Bold.

Special Thanks:

Each day of the 1996-1997 year brought with it new events and life experiences. These factors have made changes in our lives and in the world around us. These changes are proof that we are all alive.

Along the road of college life, our education and the friends we make become invaluable. And, with each new day we strive to experience new obstacles and achieve new dreams. Because of this drive, we are all living.

We must take what we have learned in the past, and use this knowledge to grow into the future. By doing this, we, the members of Saint Joseph's College, can prove that we are "Alive and Living!"
